Fall Answers Many Questions

First Session Interrupted When Secretary Becomes Exhausted—Examination Had to do With Policy of Government Inaugurated in 1920.

El Paso, Texas, March 30 (AP).—Hoping to show that Harry F. Sinclair personally had nothing to do with the actual negotiations that led up to the leasing to him of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve by Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, counsel for Sinclair today expected to continue the examination of Fall in the deposition they are taking be used in Sinclair's trial on charges of conspiring to defraud the government.

Sinclair goes on trial in District of Columbia Supreme court next Wednesday.

Fall underwent two sessions of questioning yesterday. The first, held in the afternoon, was interrupted once because he became so exhausted that his physician called a halt and let the former cabinet officer rest for ten minutes. In all he answered questions for two hours and at the session last night he withstood nearly an hour of questioning before the examination was ordered ended by his physician.

The examination had to do with the policy of the government inaugurated in 1920 of leasing oil lands to individuals and was expected to lead up to the leasing of Teapot Dome, which Mrs. Fall said her husband would say was done in ordinary course of business as conducted by the interior department.

The conduct of these negotiations, Fall was expected to testify, was carried on by subordinates in his department and he would say, Mrs. Fall said, that the $233,000 in Liberty bonds received from Sinclair were for sale of the one-third of the Tres Ritos Cattle Land Company and carried on entirely after the oil lease had been signed.

Fall's testimony was expected to show that as far as he knew, Sinclair himself did not carry on the negotiations for the Teapot lease and that Fall did not know the details of the sale of one-third interest of the ranch holdings. The sale of the ranch holdings, Fall was expected to testify, was carried on by his son-in-law, M. T. Everhart of Pueblo, Colo., who was manager of the Tres Ritos Company.

Everhart, however, testified before the Senate oil investigating committee that he went to Washington to see Fall about the sale of the third interest to Sinclair and found all details completed. He said that acting on Fall's instructions he went to New York, when he received most of the purchase price from Sinclair and later received the balance of the $233,000 in Sinclair's private car in Washington.

Discover Body In Jersey Ditch

Mt. Holly, N. J., March 30 (AP).—A chocolate-colored automobile and its occupants were being sought today by Burlington county detectives in connection with the murder of an unidentified man, whose pajama-clad body was found yesterday in a deep ditch near Rancocas.

Information that the automobile had been seen near the place where the body was found, was given last night to Ellis Parker, chief of county detectives, by Philip Jacona, a farmhand, who said he saw the automobile first speeding in one direction and within a few minutes racing by in the opposite direction.

The body was discovered shortly before noon yesterday. The slayers had split the head open in many places, apparently using a hatchet or an ax or heavy blunt instrument, before swathing the body in a bed sheet, a blanket and a cretonne counterpane and hurling it into the ditch on the little-traveled road.

Although more than 600 persons, including police of most Burlington towns and Philadelphia, viewed the body, only one partially recognized it. Aubrey Gillette, a youth of Mount Holly, said he had seen the murdered man at the Rancocas creek bungalow colony on several occasions, but he did not know his name.

Defers Decision In Contract Action

Brought by Kingston Community Hotel Corporation Against Walter S. Darling.

Judge Staley has reserved decision in the suit brought by the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation against Walter S Darling, an action on contract. This is one of several suits that have been on the supreme court calendar for some time and grows out of the campaign to sell stock for the building of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Darling signed subscription blanks for stock in the corporation for an amount of $1,000. He later, after the corporation had become incorporated and when the subscriptions were due, refused to pay on the ground that the conditions of the contract had not been compiled with.

Prior to the work and prior to the time the hotel was incorporated a prospectus was sent out asking for funds to build a community hotel. Stock subscription blanks were circulated in which it was specified that the subscriptions for stock were for the purpose of building a hotel and these contracts contained the provision that if $300,000 was not raised the contract was void. On several of the contracts additional clauses were inserted. In the Darling contract it was inserted that all of the work was to be done locally by local men. That is the principal ground upon which Mr. Darling and others stand in their refusal to pay for subscriptions to stock. Other grounds are that the stock subscriptions were solicited to build a hotel but when the company was incorporated there were inserted in the incorporation papers many other provisions among them being the statement that the corporation was authorized to build a golf course, garage, engage in the buying and selling of all kinds of merchandise etc. This it is claimed by the defendant was further ground for voiding his stock subscription contract.

The action brought against Mr. Darling was tried before Judge Staley without a jury.

Frank R. Powley, treasurer of the hotel corporation, and Arthur J. Burns, secretary, were sworn. They testified that an attempt had been made to have local contractors bid upon the work and several did but their bids were far in excess of what other contractors out of town had bid. Local men were asked to revise their bids and when their figures were found to be far in excess of what out of town bidders submitted several of the contracts were let to out of town concerns. One bid was left to a local man although slightly higher than the out of town bid.

It is the contention of the corporation that in letting bids to out of town bidders they were working for the interest of the corporation. However the conditions of the Darling stock subscription were specific in stating that all of the work was to be done by local firms.

Judge Staley at the conclusion of the case stated that his first impression was that the conditions inserted in the contract by Mr. Darling had not been complied with and that the contract had been voided by the hotel corporation but he gave plaintiff's attorneys, Judge Joseph M. Fowler and N. H. Fessenden, until April 15 to submit briefs covering the matter. A. J. Cook, who appeared for defendant, was also given an opportunity to answer.

Decision was reserved pending the filing of briefs.

Two Hurt in Fall Through Trapdoor

Mrs. Wesley Ellis and Mrs. Roy Bailey While Returning Home From Theatre Fell Through Trap Door in Sidewalk in Front of the Van Wagenen Store.

Thursday evening Mrs. Wesley Ellis of 202 Fair street and her daughter, Mrs. Roy Bailey of Rhinebeck, who was stopping with her, attended the last performance at Reade's Kingston Theatre and were on their way home when they suddenly fell through the trap door in the sidewalk in front of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company store at 311 Wall street. Both were quite badly bruised about the arms, legs and body, and were attended by Dr. E. F. Sibley.

As they were walking past the Van Wagenen store the iron doors that cover the opening in the sidewalk suddenly gave way beneath their feet. Mrs. Bailey, who was walking slightly ahead of her mother, fell first, landing on the freight platform a few feet below the sidewalk. Mrs. Ellis's fall was somewhat broken when she toppled over on her daughter's body.

Policeman William Hess, who was on duty, hurried to the scene and assisted the women to the sidewalk and called a car to take them home.

Postmaster McHugh Dies, Apparently Regretted Act

Harry B. McHugh, 31, postmaster at Wallkill who on Tuesday shot and killed Miss Marie Terwilliger, 19, died Thursday afternoon from self inflicted wounds. Rather than be taken alive and standing trial McHugh fired a bullet through his head when State Troopers Lockhart and Hopkins cornered him in a lumber yard in the village.

Only an oversight on the part of McHugh prevented him from committing another murder. When discovered in the lumber yard, where he had evidently been in hiding since the night before, McHugh drew his .45 calibre service revolver which he used at the post office to guard the mails and, taking careful aim at his pursuer, pulled the trigger. The hammer fell upon an empty chamber in the gun. At the time Sergeant Lockhart had not seen McHugh and it was only the click of the falling hammer which betrayed the fugitive. Had there been a cartridge in the chamber Sergeant Lockhart would have undoubtedly been a second victim of the gun, for McHugh was a clever shot and had every opportunity to draw a careful aim on the Trooper.

Bullet Grazes Slayer's Head.

With the falling of the hammer and its responding sound, Sergeant Lockhardt, who with Sergeant Jack Hopkins was searching the lumber yard, pulled the trigger of his own service revolver and fired at the sound which had betrayed the fugitive. His shot, although a chance one aimed in the direction of the sound and hurriedly drawn on the disappearing figure, took effect. McHugh's hat was shot from his head and the bullet grazed his head.

As McHugh fell backward upon a pile of lumber Sergeant Lockhart commanded him to come forward, assuring him that no harm would come to him, but McHugh a second later, without responding to the Trooper, fired a second shot and this time he fired the closing shot which ultimately caused his death. McHugh preferred taking his own life rather than to be taken captive by the officers of the law.

His Shot Proved Fatal

Although mortally wounded by the shot which went in near the ear and came out on the opposite side of his head near the temple, McHugh lived from 7:30 o'clock in the morning, when discovered, until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. After the shot had been fired the troopers, realizing that McHugh would not be taken alive, rushed upon him and discovered that his shot had struck in a fatal spot and no help could be given. McHugh was taken to his own home in the village where medical attention was given but from the first there was no hope that he could recover.

When the gun was recovered it was discovered that there were but two empty chambers in it, which indicates that after the shooting of Miss Terwilliger McHugh must have reloaded his gun as he lay in wait for the officers to either discover him or for an opportunity to make good his escape. In reloading the gun he evidently overlooked one empty chamber and fortunately this was the chamber which happened to fall under the hammer as McHugh drew his gun on Sergeant Lockhart.

McHugh after the shooting Tuesday disappeared from sight and it was first thought he had jumped in to the Wallkill river. This theory was finally exploded. Under Sheriff William S. Doyle, after a careful search of the ground about the post office building and along the Wallkill found no footprints. He concluded that McHugh could not have gone to the creek without making tracks and there were no tracks leading down to the water. The only way he could have made away with himself in the creek was to have jumped from the bridge which crosses the creek and this was not deemed possible as the bridge is at a considerable height from the water and, there was no evidence of such an act. This discovery led Sheriff Rice to take up a systematic search of the village and surrounding country on Wednesday.

Visits Brothers Home

Wednesday night this theory of Mr. Doyle was confirmed when McHugh made his appearance at the home of his brother, Clarence McHugh, in the village, and demanded food and clothing. Armed with his gun, he entered his brother's home about 9 o'clock and, keeping the family covered so there was no chance to give the alarm, he demanded food and a heavy coat and hat. When he disappeared after the shooting McHugh was clothed only in a sweater, shirt and pants and wore no hat. His coat was found in the post office in the usual place.

As Harry McHugh sat in his brother's home eating as though it had been days since he last tasted food he told a part of his story to his brother. He said that after the shooting he had left the scene, how he did not say. He told of being in hiding and seeing the search going on. He told of seeing the operations to dynamite the river for his body and he also said he had seen the Troopers and Deputy Sheriffs looking for him in the woods across the creek. It is presumed he made his way across the creek and spent some time in the woods where the search was made.

Could Have Shot Trooper.

At one time he said he saw a Trooper coming directly toward him. Crouching in the brush he saw the Trooper came along the stone wall behind which he was hid. The Trooper passed within a few feet of him and continued on. A few feet beyond the Trooper stopped and looked over the wall in the direction where McHugh was hidden. He remained quiet and the Trooper passed on not five feet away. He told his brother that Included in the new addition will also be an enlarged cafeteria. The present cafeteria has been found too small to care for the employes of the plant.

Mrs. Wilson Shoots Husband

Arctic Explorer and Big Game Hunter Is Held On A Charge of Felonious Assault After Shooting Estranged Husband, Dallett Wilson.

New York, March 30 (AP).—Mrs. Esther Wilson, Arctic explorer and big game hunter, was held today on a charge of felonious assault after shooting and seriously wounding her estranged husband, Dallett Wilson, prominent New York attorney.

Mrs. Wilson, immediately after the shooting, told police she had called at her husband's office to demand a settlement of their marital difficulties.

"I wanted either to live together or be divorced," she said. "I offered to let him get the divorce, but he refused."

Mr. Wilson was wounded in the arm and in the back. He was taken to the Welfare Island Hospital where doctors said the wounds were serious. He is 49 years old, his wife two years younger. They have been married 18 years and separated six months ago. They have no children.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been married previously. In 1919 they were named corespondents in separate divorce actions brought by Mrs. Wilson's first husband and Wilson's first wife. The next year they were married. J. Douglas DeForest, a wealthy New York broker, was Mrs. Wilson's first husband and Miss Lila Bradbury, of an old Connecticut family, Mr. Wilson's first wife.

Both couples were prominent in New York society at the time and the sensational divorce actions were said to have come as a surprise to their friends.

Mrs. Wilson came to New York from Washington Sunday and had been stopping at the Women's National Republican Club. Yesterday afternoon she went to her husband's office in the Heckscher Building on Fifth avenue and was admitted to his private suite.

They began to converse in quiet tones and a stenographer who entered the room with some letters for Mr. Wilson to sign said neither appeared to be angry. The girl told police she heard Mrs. Wilson demanding an increase in her allowance from $450 to $1,000 a month. At six o'clock two shots rang out. Associates ran into the room and found Mr. Wilson lying on the floor with his wife standing over him, a revolver in her hand.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Parcocello, who questioned her, said she appeared highly nervous and he believed her to be mentally unbalanced.

Mrs. Wilson at first told police she shot her husband because "my money has been kept from me" and accused him of "running around with other women."

Later she denied that there were any money troubles and said "it seems like a bad dream."

Mrs Wilson was spared the ordeal of appearing before 100 masked detectives at the regular morning line-up at police headquarters.

Asked if she wished her husband to recover from the wounds she inflicted, she replied somewhat excitedly:

"Oh, I do hope he will recover. I certainly do hope he will recover. I hope he does."

She had not been told that hospital physicians consider Wilson's condition not serious.

She left headquarters holding her handbag to her face and took her seat in a patrol wagon to be taken to west side court.

36,000 Bottles of Liquor Seized

New York, March 30 (AP).—The three-masted schooner W. E. Litchfield with a cargo of 36,000 bottles of liquor, casually slipped through the customs patrol in the harbor, only to be seized at her anchorage at Yonkers last night, customs authorities announced today. The craft, with its captain and crew of six, was towed to the barge office at the Battery this morning. The men will be questioned later in the day.

The liquor, contained in 4,000 bags, was valued at $360,000. The craft itself is valued at $50,000.

The schooner, which had no auxiliary motor and is of a type not often seen here, arrived from Miami on Monday, dropping anchor off Sandy Hook. One man left the schooner there, going ashore in a small boat, according to customs men, who believed him to be the super-cargo whose duty it would be to arrange for landing the cargo.

The craft lolled at her Sandy Hook flats, almost opposite the coast guard station at Clifton, Staten Island.

Continuing her leisurely trip to her destination, the schooner passed up the Hudson yesterday and dropped anchor in mid-stream, having escaped the eyes of the customs patrol boats and the marine police.

John H. McGill, deputy surveyor of the port, with a searching squad, was patrolling the river in a customs launch yesterday when one of the men became suspicious of the schooner.

Mrs. Goodhue More Comfortable.

Northampton, Mass., March 30 (AP).—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, had a fairly restful night and was more comfortable today, said a bulletin issued by her physician, Dr. J. E. Hayes.

More Threats and Shots in Chicago

Municipal Court Bailiff Seriously Wounded and Another Man Shot Down—U. S. District Attorney Johnson Warned He Had Been Marked for a Bomb.

Chicago, March 30 (AP).—More threats of bombings, more bullets, more pleas for federal protection at the April 10 primary polls peppered politics in Chicago today.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, an appointee of Senator Deneen, was warned by telephone that he had been marked for a bomb. A report that a political meeting of Circuit Judge Swanson was to be broken up by bombs spread alarm and then blew up of its own momentum, the meeting being held without incident.

A municipal court bailiff, who has been a ward worker for the anti-Deneen forces, headed by Mayor Thompson and State's Attorney Crowe, was shot and seriously wounded by one of a dozen federal agents who raided a saloon.

The torch was added to the Chicago killer's repertoire when a man whose name is believed to have been Marchese was shot down and then burned after gasoline had been poured over the body. A card in the man's purse carried the name, Paul Marchese. That is the family name of the widow of Diamond Joe Esposito, Deneen worker, slain nine days ago.

From Washington came word that Attorney General Sargent had received the request of United States Marshal Palmer Anderson for authority to deputize additional marshals primary election day, and that he would study the facts before making a decision.

"I find strong indications of a conspiracy to prevent honest elections in a large number of precincts in Chicago and surrounding territory," Anderson wrote. "I fear that unless strong preventive measures are taken, serious trouble may occur and that danger of the free expression of public suffrage in the election of a federal public officer may result." (A United States senator is to be nominated).

The slaying of Marchese and the shooting of William Beatty, the bailiff, were not given any direct connection with the troublous political situation created by the conflict between the Deneen and Thompson-Crowe factions. The name Marchese suggested the Diamond Joe slaying and thus a political connection through Diamond Joe's friendship for Senator Deneen.

The shooting of Beatty was made mysterious by determination of the federal men to handle the affairs independently of police.

Set New World Endurance Record

Jacksonville Beach, Fla., March 30 (AP).—George Haldeman and Eddie Stinson today set a new world record airplane endurance flight of 53 hours, 36 minutes, 41 seconds.

They landed at 1:14:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, after breaking by one hour 14 minutes 10 seconds the German mark made last August.

The fliers landed a mile from where they took off and taxied south to the spot they left Wednesday morning. They still had gasoline in the tanks.

In bringing back to America the coveted record, Stinson and Haldeman accomplished what had been essayed vainly for months by their brother airmen. Adverse weather, accidents and engine trouble combined to compel abandonment of other attempts at the record, including those made by the new record holders themselves.

Stinson, a manufacturer of airplanes, produced several used in trans-Atlantic flight attempts last year. He has distinguished himself in numerous air competitions on this side of the Atlantic. Haldeman was pilot for Ruth Elder in their attempt to span the Atlantic which ended when their plane was forced down at sea.

WHALE BATTLES EXCITING SPORT

Thrasher and Swordfish Its Enemies and Combat is to Death.

New York.—Although the chief whaling grounds are now found in the Southern Pacific whales are numerous enough in warmer seas to furnish a thrill now and then for shipmasters and fishermen.

Passengers aboard the liner Vestris off the island of Barbados, recently witnessed a sight seldom seen by ocean travelers. A whale, a thrasher, or swordfish, and a blackfish were engaged in combat, with the whale on the defensive. The blackfish leaped into the air and threw itself on the whale's back with terrific force. The swordfish engaged the whale from below, lunging continually with its sword. It was quite evident that the swordfish and blackfish were allies, for each time the blackfish forced the whale below the surface the swordfish jabbed at him and forced him up again. The whale leaped out of the sea so that its whole body could be seen and tried to shake off its enemies. The ship left the scene before the fight had reached a decision, but it is likely that the whale was done to death.

Some weeks ago a school of 120 whales was stranded on the shores of Scotland near the village of Bonar Bridge. Shoals of herring had apparently lured the whales into the shallow water and there they were trapped.

Problem for Scots.

The problem of disposal was a difficult one for the villagers. Some time before the burial of a single stranded whale cost them £20. The thought of burying 120 whales almost threw the village into a panic until a Britisher happened along and, having examined the carcasses, found them to be a variety of the killer whale. The British museum ordered the skeletons to be sent to London and the blubber was sold by the villagers.

Whales, except the "killer" variety, are usually of a peaceful nature. The killer whale is of little use commercially, but is feared by other species and by fishermen. Frank T. Bullen, in his "Cruise of the Cachalot," describes the depredations of three killers when attacking a bowhead.

"The killer, or Orca gladiator, is a true whale," he says, "but, like the cachalot, has teeth. The first inkling I got of what was really going on was the leaping of a killer high into the air by the side of the whale and descending upon the victim's broad, smooth back with a resounding crash. I saw that the killer was provided with a pair of huge fins—one on his back, the other on his belly—which at first sight looked as if they were also weapons of offense. A little observation convinced me that they were fins only. Again and again the aggressor leaped into the air, falling each time on the whale's back, as if to beat him into submission.

"The sea around foamed and boiled like a caldron, so that it was only occasional glimpses I was able to catch of the combat, until presently the worried whale lifted his head clear out of the surrounding smother revealing two of the furies hanging one on either side, to his lips, as if endeavoring to drag his mouth open which I afterward saw was their principal object, as whenever during the tumult I caught sight of them they were still in the same position. At last the tremendous and incessant blows, dealt by the most active member of the trio, seemed actually to have exhausted the immense vitality of the great bowhead, for he lay supine upon the surface. Then the three joined their forces and succeeded in dragging open his cavernous mouth into which they freely entered, disappearing bit by bit. This then had been their sole object, for as soon as they had finished their barbarous feast they departed, leaving him helpless and dying."

Encounters With Vessels.

One of the enemies of the whale is the giant octopus. Actual battles between them have been recorded by eyewitnesses. The octopus, a deep-water creature, throws its long tentacles around the whale, at the same time laying down a "smoke screen" of black fluid, but the whale often manages to break loose and kill its adversary.

Whales are sometimes killed by vessels. The Burmugaria sighted a school of whales on a Sunday afternoon. One of them left his comrades and made for her. The big liner struck him fairly and destroyed him. The destroyer Lamson was bumped by a whale but without material damage either to ship or fish.

FRAMINGHAM TOWN MEETING. BIGGEST PURE DEMOCRACY

Framingham, Mass., March 30 (AP).—The town of Framingham is going to remain the largest pure democracy in the United States for at least another year.

Once more this community of 23,000 souls, assembled in town meeting, has rejected a proposal that it petition the state legislature for a city charter.

The body of voters who assemble in Memorial Hall to decide Framingham's policies is larger than any state legislature, larger than congress, larger than any parliament of any nation, great or small, in the world. The town meeting, the old-fashioned New England form of government, is not only "of the people, for the people and by the people"—it is the people.

For six nights this year 1,500 to 2,800 voters assembled to listen to plans for conducting the government for another year, to make suggestions themselves, to debate and finally to register their approval or disapproval by vote.

Three selectmen, one chosen each year for a three-year term, are delegated by the voters to carry out their wishes. A slate of lesser officials and a finance board also is chosen yearly.

Some citizens argue that the old democracy is antiquated, that it is too cumbersome for so large a town. They feel that there is not the coordination and cooperation there should be between the various town departments.

While there is ample provision for all voters to register their votes at the polls, the 7,500 voters of the town cannot all crowd into the biggest hall in town at one time. Before town meeting it was felt that sentiment was "pretty strong" for the proposal to petition for a city charter.

Then, on the last night, a prominent citizen arose and stoutly defended the ancient democratic system and warned against choosing another. And his fellow citizens voted down the proposal for a change of government by an overwhelming majority.

DIRIGIBLE UPKEEP COSTS HALF MILLION

Washington, March 30 (AP).—Sportsmen who contemplate supplanting their yachts with airships may be interested to know that it cost Uncle Sam $563,102 to operate the dirigible Los Angeles during the fiscal year 1927.

Maintenance and operation, excluding pay of crew, cost $271,819. The pay and subsistence of the crew cost $130,012, and the pay of officers and men attached to the Lakehurst station (pro-rata), was $161,271.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 30, 1928.

According to report the Canadian Supreme Court has decided that women can not sit in the Canadian Senate because that privilege belongs only to "persons"—which, it would appear, women are not, although the lexicographers define "person" as "a human being, distinct from an animal or thing." The indignation of about half the population of Canada may be imagined—if the curious report has real basis.

The movies have made the one-night stands of the spoken drama unprofitable, but the older form is shown to be still in great demand by the activity of local dramatic companies in a number of states. There is news, for example, of 128 theatrical productions of considerable merit in Ohio alone, given by 95 different producing organizations such as country and grange clubs, which were witnessed by 28,000 people who paid admission.

Jaywalking must cease in Paris. The prefect of police has issued a reminder that on streets vehicles have the right of way. He states that the sidewalks are reserved for pedestrians, and when they need to cross the street they must do so at the proper places, and on corners where no traffic officers are on duty they must wait until no vehicles are passing. This is wise policy in America also, although it is frequently departed from and not infrequently with disastrous results.

THE "AMERICAN LANGUAGE".

The differences between the "English" and "American" languages are widely supposed to consist merely in the divergence of the polite slang and the street argot of the two countries, and to a very considerable extent this no doubt is the whole of the matter. But even so, there appears to be sufficient difference to affect international trade and cause business houses no little perplexity, as is shown by an amusing story reported by the Baltimore Sun's London correspondent. It seems that an American woman living in London received the following inquiry addressed to her by letter from the English keeper of a lace and lingerie shop with whom she was acquainted:

I very much regret to trouble you, but feel that you would be able to help me out of a difficulty. I have at present an order which I have just received from the States, and the Young Lady is requiring a "Teddy" and a "step-in" among other garments. These words being not used in England, could I ask you to be good enough as to let we know the English words for these articles? it is the first time that any articles of lingerie have been ordered from America under these names. A thousand thanks in anticipation, and please accept my best compliments.

Unfortunately the explanatory answer of the American lady was not reported, for it is altogether probable that no few American readers will be as puzzled as was the London shopkeeper to know just what is either a "Teddy" or a "step-in".

LAW ENFORCEMENT.

The question as to why England has less crime proportionately than the United States is again being discussed. The New York Herald Tribune takes issue with Edgar Wallace, British novelist, who, after a visit to this country, declares that police laxity and the law's delay are almost entirely to blame for the conditions in this country and that under British administration of justice and police system the gangster could not exist. "In England," he says, "the machinery of the law moves very swiftly and with a terrible inevitability. The murderer hangs. There are no long delays, no flats of state attorneys, no appeals to Governors." To this the Herald Tribune replies: "What Mr. Wallace does not reckon with is the great alien population in America, the criminal element of which is drawn largely from the slums of the wickedest cities in the world. Any newspaper report of the capture of a gang contains many names which are of foreign origin."

This is true, but for that very reason the average judge and jury would be the more inclined to mete out proper punishment when such foreign criminals and gangsters are once caught. And why is it not done promptly and effectively? This is not an answer; it is merely a claim, however well based, that the conditions we have to deal with are more serious. "Had London and her sister cities in England," says the Herald Tribune, "to deal with the same problems as has this country her system of dispensing justice, admirable as it is, would not save her from gangs." Possibly not, but the point is that the British system—as everybody seems to admit—is both more expeditious and more effective than ours. Why, therefore, should we not study it and adopt at least some of its features? The experiment would seem to be at least worth trying.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

A POSSIBLE CAUSE OF MIGRAINE.

I have written more than once about that miserable form of headache called migraine, which is a sort of neuralgia of one side or one-half of the head, accompanied by nausea, vomiting, and great depression.

Between attacks patients usually have a fair degree of health. Just what causes it has never been definitely proven. That overwork and worry seem to predispose to the attacks is generally admitted.

Further, that the liver was a factor has been suspected for many years because of the "bilious" feeling that usually accompanies the headache.

In order to try and fix the blame definitely upon the liver, Dr. J. S. Diamond of New York investigated thirty-five cases of migraine with the usual half-sided headache and abdominal symptoms.

He made liver tests in all these cases, which as you know consists of testing out the ability of the liver to store sugar within itself, instead of allowing too much to circulate in the blood.

Similarly, dyes and other substances are given to the patient, and the ability of the liver to take this dye out of the blood within a certain time is tested.

Where the liver took too long to separate out the dye and store the sugar, it was thus proven that the liver was not doing its work properly.

In 32 of the 35 cases it was found that the liver was taking too long in doing this work.

He tells us that it is the inability of the liver to separate out the poisonous wastes derived from too much meat and eggs in intestine, that causes the headache and attack of biliousness.

He has been able to give patients relief by cutting down on meats and eggs.

Now meats and eggs are good foods, and most of us should eat them at least once a day, particularly if we do physical work or take exercise, but where the system does not tolerate them well, then only after the individual is well rested should meat or eggs be eaten. The above would certainly tend to prove that the liver in these individuals, by not doing its work, causes migraine.

As you know the use of the ordinary epsom salts in small doses daily was shown to be of help in these conditions, because it depleted the liver, helped empty the gall bladder, and removed poisonous substances from the blood.

START SCHOOL FORESTRY CLUBS.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 30.—The forestry club in schools has been introduced with success. Every school where students are old enough to plant trees and where idle land or forests are within reasonable distance could establish a forestry club with reforestation and forest protection as its principal objects. Where land is not available for tree planting, a forest may be available for observation where boys and girls under direction of their teachers could obtain much valuable information and pleasure, says the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University.

In 1927 there were 228,000 trees planted by school children in New York. Many trees were also planted by Boy Scouts and members of other boys and girls organizations. School forests will return a revenue and if the forest is large enough the income would maintain the school. Trees for this purpose are supplied without cost by the Conservation Commission. There is land in many counties that could be appropriated for school forests.

Forestry clubs could be devoted to the planting of school forests as well as to the purpose recently announced by the Walton Public Schools: "To guard carefully trees and animals from fire and to take interest and pride in their development." Forestry clubs should be made up of all school boys and girls who enjoy outdoor life. Properly directed contact with the forests and forest life is one of the most instructive and interesting phases of education.

It would seem that if the forestry club idea was presented in a proper way to the students of public schools and opportunity given on Arbor day or at other times to plant trees and get into the woods the school forestry clubs meet with enthusiastic support and in many cases become a financial success. In all cases the club would be a great benefit both to forest conservation and to student education.

AINTREE BAR EXTENDS NEARLY A BLOCK.

Aintree, England, March 30 (AP).—The famous cocktail bar at Shanghai, known for its length, was outdone here today. Aintree had one today for the Grand National which extended nearly a block. When the bar opened for business for the first hour there were twice as many bartenders as customers.

All told there were sixty bars here, some for stout and ale, some for soft drinks and one for champagne only.

Two thousand waiters were employed in a series of cafes and restaurants to serve 200,000 meals. Tons of sandwiches, bread, meat and eggs were brought here. The task of fetching food to feed the crowd began yesterday afternoon and continued until this morning.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE MAY LEAD ALBANIANS

Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, March 30 (AP).—Major-General Gajda, once commander-in-chief of the Russian White Forces on the eastern Siberian front and lately deputy chief of staff of the Czecho-Slovak army, has been degraded by a military court to the rank of a common soldier.

Behind this announcement is a story of romance, intrigue, treachery and daring seldom equalled in military annals by soldiers of fortune.

Born in a little Moravian town, Gajda, whose real name is Rudolf Geidel, began life as a druggist's boy. When the world war came he enlisted in the field hospital service of the Austro-Hungarian army. Later he deserted in Montenegro and joined the enemy, representing himself as a Captain. He next appeared as an army surgeon in Russia, where he married the daughter of Admiral Kolchak, head of the anti-Bolshevist forces. He later joined the Czecho-Slovak legionary troops as a self-appointed "general" and fought the Bolsheviks on the eastern Siberian front.

In September, 1918, scarcely 29, Gajda became commander-in-chief on the eastern Russian front. But he quarreled with his father-in-law, and is alleged to have "sold" the latter to the Bolsheviks, who shot the admiral for opposing the Red forces. After an abortive attempt at a coup d'etat at Vladivostok, Gajda was put on a ship and sent to Europe. Arriving in Prague, he determined to play a big role in Czecho-Slovakia.

He became military commander of a Slovakian garrison and in 1926 was made deputy chief of staff of the Czecho-Slovak army. Believing he could imitate Napoleon's career he surrounded himself with politicians and planned a military coup d'etat in his own country. Just about that time the Czech government learned that Gajda had "sold" himself to the Soviet authorities. He is said to have given the Bolsheviks secret French military plans and to have offered his services to the Red army. Faced with court-martial, he resigned from the Czecho-Slovak army and created a fascismo force of which he made himself the head. At a fascist meeting communists attacked him, and he saved himself only by flight.

Meanwhile the sentence of degradation from the rank of general was pronounced by a military court and confirmed by the appellate court.

He handed his uniform to a servant, with instructions to place it in naphthalin until he should require it again.

Now he is reported to have been offered the command of the entire Albanian army by Ahmed Zogu, president of the Albanian republic. He is said to be on his way to Tirana to accept the offer.

SHANGHAI-TO-HONGKONG AIR SERVICE PLANNED

Shanghai, March 30 (AP).—Establishment of commercial airplane service between Shanghai and Hongkong, approximately 900 miles away, is being considered by commercial interests representing both foreign and Chinese investors.

At a recent meeting in Hongkong of those interested in the project, Wing-Commander Vaughn Fowler of the British air forces stationed there, said triple-engined airplanes would be suitable for the service and that the trip could be made at an average speed of from 80 to 90 miles an hour. Strong winds along the China coast are an important factor to be considered in such a project.

ILLINOIS TO RE-ENACT FT. MASSAC MASSACRE.

Ft. Massac Park, Ill., March 30 (AP).—Southern Illinois will reenact the landing here 150 years ago of Col. George Rogers Clark and his band of colonial warriors. Scenes that attended the landing of Clark and the massacre of Fort Massac soldiers by Indians, camouflaged as bears, will be shown in a pageant.

The celebration, planned for June 25 to July 4, includes the rebuilding of Fort Massac as it stood at the time of the arrival of the revolutionary forces, with breastworks thrown up along the river and cannon mounted at strategic places. Barges are to float down the river carrying Clark and his men attired in colonial costumes.

The massacre occurred on the Kentucky side of the river, when Indians robed in bear skins crawled along the side of the stream to entice the soldiers across the river. Bent on slaying the "animals" for food, the soldiers rowed across the Ohio river only to find themselves ambushed and at the mercy of the Indians, who promptly killed them.

The Metropolis chamber of commerce, sponsors of the celebration, has the backing of the Illinois legislature and state historical associations for the project. Paducah, Ky., has promised support.

The federal government first placed a garrison at Ft. Massac at the suggestion of General Anthony Wayne. It was there that Aaron Burr came to plot and plan a new republic.

Fort Massac was the first point in Illinois and the old northwest territory over which the flag of the united colonies was raised. From there Clark and his band of men from Kentucky and Pennsylvania marched overland through the wilderness to Kaskaskia and captured the English fort there.

42 PILOTS AND CAPTAINS GATHERED AT COURT HOUSE

Governor DeWitt Clinton, whose life-sized portrait adorns the head of the main staircase at the court house, on Tuesday looked down upon the largest gathering of old Rondout creek and Hudson river captains and pilots ever assembled in that historic building. The portrait was painted by Henry Inman, a distinguished American portrait painter, who represented Governor Clinton as holding in his hand the original charter of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company granted in 1825, and signed by him. The captains and pilots thronged not only the court room but the halls and corridors of the court house, the sheriff's office and the supervisors' room. They were quiet, reticent, observant men, and navigation being but just begun, they decided to put in their time listening to the trial of the Whalen case against the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, the Dwyer Brothers and the Lenahan Company, arising out of the death of Francis Whalen.

They looked with great interest at Governor Clinton's portrait, scanned with critical approval the large map of the Island Dock upon which formerly was piled quantities of coal and upon which was delineated the inner channel in which the barge Coogan was moored at the time of Whalen's death, a map which had been prepared by County Surveyor Loughran under the direction of Judge Clearwater, counsel for the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, and upon which was shown what remains of the "Great Kaatsbaan" and the "Plantasie Creek". They discussed the bygone days when daily dozens of canal boats loaded with coal were towed down from Eddyville to the Island Dock by the old Pittson, the Oswego and the first "kickers" (propellers).

They discussed their memories of the time when four horse loads of tanned hides were brought down the Rondout hill from the tanneries of General Samson, at Samsonville, of Fayerweather & Ladew at Shokan, and great loads of firkins of butter came down from Delaware county, all to be shipped to New York by the old steamers Manhattan and North America. They deplored the passage of the time when daily cargoes of Rosendale cement and bluestone were taken out of the creek by the sloops and schooners whose home port was Wilbur. They talked of the time that Billy Hudler kept the Santa Claus Hotel and John Kline kept the Twaalfskill house and Wilbur was the home port of the Alida, the fastest boat that ever ran out of the creek.

There was a singular unanimity of opinion among them as to the use to which the inner channel was devoted and while they were reluctant to act as witnesses in the case because of the tragedy which it involved in the deaths of young Whalen and Captain Hamburger, nevertheless as they were there, many of them under subpoena, they proposed to tell precisely what they knew of the situation as it had existed during their entire lifetime.

One grizzled captain said that he had stood upon the big stone steps of the court house and counted forty-two pilots and captains entering the door of that building. He remarked that if the battery of lawyers engaged in the case were going to take the evidence of all these men, the court instead of sitting for four weeks would sit for six and navigation would be in full blast before the jury agreed upon a verdict. Therefore the settlement of the case was a relief to them regardless of their opinion as to the rights of the various parties to the action.

Limited Liability

A company limited is a company in which the liability of each shareholder is limited to the amount of his stock or shares, or to the amount fixed by a guarantee. It is generally required that the word limited be the last word in the company's name, though there are occasional exceptions to this rule.

EXPLODES MANY SNAKE THEORIES

Scientist Makes Exhaustive Study of Private Life of Mr. Rattler.

Chicago—Dr. Erskine's study for the "Private Life of Helen of Troy" had nothing on the intimate study of the daily life and habits of one of nature's most repulsive reptiles. The rattlesnake, by Dr. William H. Welker of the University of Illinois college of medicine in this city. Not did Erskine find out anything more of interest about Helen than did Doctor Welker about the rattler. The scientist, through his study of the private life of Mr. Rattler, has been able to explode a number of pet snake theories and superstitions that strike terror into the hearts of every one when this reptile is mentioned.

For three years he pried into the life of the reptile, extracting poison and hoping to give the world an antivenin. When he finished he had this to say:

"Mr. Rattler is a perfect gentleman," Doctor Welker insists. "He is quiet and well mannered. He does not go out of his way looking trouble but rather will slip silently away into the sand and eager mob if given half a chance."

Plays With Rattlers.

Doctor Welker, one of the three men who have studied the venom of the deadly "diamond back" extensively, is professor of physiological chemistry of the University of Illinois college of medicine and his experience with the rattlesnakes has been gained through his study of the poison of the venom. The venom looks much like the white of an egg except that it is colored deeper yellow and is not quite so sticky. For three years he handled rattlers, kept them in his laboratory, played with them, experimented with them and during the entire time never did he have one of them attempt to strike him. He keeps in one of the drawers of his laboratory desk, several vials of hard dark orange granules that he handles rather carefully, but which, in themselves in the dry state are not harmful—so he says. These orange crystals are dried rattlesnake venom in its most concentrated form.

"I have coupled it in many of the rattlesnake cases," Doctor Welker said, "and I have handled snakes in my laboratory; therefore, I can say without regard to what others believe that a rattler never strikes except when angered.

"Some who have seen rattlers strike may be deceived by the slowness of the eye. A rattler is about as quick as lightning.

"You could see a rattler stretched out, and the next instant his fangs have pierced your leg. You think that he has struck when in which, but your eye was not swift enough to follow the action. However, you seldom see a healthy rattler uncoiled. When one is at rest or asleep he is usually wound up in a coil or some formation.

Strikes Only When Angered.

"The rattler never strikes unless provoked. He is peace loving and if given notice will avoid a fight. Only when he is startled or angered does he flash his fangs.

"I have seen a guinea pig live unmolested for three days in a cage with a rattler. Whenever an animal placed in a cage with a snake irritates him, the rattler usually will kill him, but not until provoked.

"Seldom is the strike of a rattler fatal to an adult. I have never known of a grown person to die from the venom. In my travels I have often obtained third or fourth hand information about such deaths, but only once did I find a man who said he had first-hand knowledge. After questioning him closely I still had doubts."

Misogynist, 80, Buried Beside Heart Captivator

Sapple, England.—William Edgar Allen, an eighty-year-old bachelor, who eschewed female companionship during his entire life, has been carried to the grave by four women pall-bearers.

Allen lived a yeoman's life. He tended his own cottage and his flower garden. He made his own fine butter and carried it afoot for miles to neighboring markets. Hundreds of women came to the funeral of the aged recluse and four of them volunteered to carry his casket. The coffin was crowned with a wreath of laurel and roses from his own garden.

They buried him alongside of Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield, the great Victorian whose charming way with women captivated even the queen of England.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—A step-daughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt is to have the star role in a Russian ballet. Lady Paul Dykes, formerly Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, is to use her maiden name, Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford, on the stage. She has been studying dancing in London, Paris and Monte Carlo. All seats for the first performance, April 9, have been bought in the aid of charity by Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, divorced wife of the present William K. Vanderbilt.

Aiken, S. C.—Fellows who have a big wallop in other sports do like to make that little white ball ride toward a distant green. Thomas Hitchcock of the polo family has won a golf tournament here.

New York—With a brilliant carmine complexion Mayor Walker has brought a lot of fish stories from Florida. The sunburn, he says, was a break for the fish; fewer got caught.

Galveston—Seated politicians at the Kansas City and Houston conventions will have to quench their thirst in a legal manner. Alf Oftedal, assistant prohibition commissioner is all set to prevent them doing otherwise.

New York—Two girls and a boy adopted by Nora Bayes are to inherit her entire estate. The eldest is ten. Benjamin Friedland, her wealthy husband, says the estate is considerable.

Los Angeles—Mrs. Charlotte Pickford's will created a $200,000 trust fund for her son Jack, her daughter Lottie, and her granddaughter, Mary, and leaves the bulk of her estate to her daughter, Mary, of whom the will says: "Whatever I possess at the time of my death has come to me through her most unusual generosity toward me."

New York—Rupert Labelle and Rena Parker signed "salesman" and "home girl" respectively on an application for a marriage license. The Rialto has identified them as musical comedy stars.

New York—There will be no April fool jokes on investors in American industry. Dividends and interest payments by corporations in the next few days will aggregate around $200,000,000 and the month will add about half a billion more.

QUARTER OF FARMS HAVE ELECTRICITY.

Electric Iron is the Most Popular Appliance.

Ithaca, N. Y., March 29.—Fifty-five thousand of the 155,000 farms of New York state have electricity either from a central station or from their own plants, according to an estimate by R. F. Bucknam, of the New York State College of Agriculture here, who recently made a survey of the use of electricity on New York farms. He points out that at the beginning of 1927, a total of 35,600 farms were served by central-station current. On the basis of this total and figures recently obtained in a survey, he concludes that one-fourth to one-third of the farms have electricity.

On a total of 1,787 farms on which Mr. Bucknam has records, the average number of outlets is 23 for the home, 12 for the tenant house, and about 9 for the barn. Other uses have a total of 14 outlets.

In these farm homes, electric irons are the most popular; 1,181 farms reported 1,062 irons, 975 vacuum cleaners and 775 washing machines. Toasters, battery chargers, curling irons, heaters, percolators and sewing machines rank in the order named. Other appliances mentioned less frequently are electric pads, stoves, grills, fans, waffle irons, hot plates, ranges and refrigerators.

Electricity used to pump water was found in 389 houses, 244 barns and 120 other building on these farms. Mr. Bucknam comments that "many farms have gravity water systems. Many others have not yet replaced small gasoline engines."

Use Small Motors.

Of a total of 860 motors used on these 1,181 farms, nearly 30 per cent were ¼ horsepower, and by far the largest share were one horsepower or less. The most common use for motors is milking machines. Other uses include general shop work, to run cream separators, churns, fruit graders, feed grinders, bottle washers, clippers and 25 other specific uses, mentioned rarely however.

Mr. Bucknam says "it is apparent that the use of electric motors is confined to light tasks which frequently become irksome. Motors have not been widely used for heavy jobs such as running ensilage cutters, threshers or for sawing wood."

Natural History Fact

An enormous amount of money has been spent in fighting the dreaded grouse disease, yet one intelligent gamekeeper proved that if a pair of peregrines and a few sparrow-hawks were allowed to nest and live in peace on the estate, this disease disappeared. The reason is obvious. The weakly birds are killed, for they fall an easy prey to their enemies, while the remaining stock become stronger and better in every way.—London Tit-Bits.

ATTORNEY GENERAL EXPERT WITH LASSO

Santa Fe, N. M., March 31 (AP).—When Bob Dow, attorney general of New Mexico, leaves the state house with his brief case, he may be carrying a lasso and be on his way to a rodeo instead of a lawsuit.

Bob was born a cowboy, and a cowboy he remains. When affairs of state permit, he travels a great distance to take in a rodeo and to try his skill at riding bronchos, bull-dogging steers and roping calves. He competed recently in wild west contests held in connection with the southwestern livestock exposition at Fort Worth.

At Las Vegas some time ago he tied a calf in 40 seconds.

Bob Dow's father, Les Dow, was sheriff of Eddy county when cattle thieves, gamblers, bandits and gunmen were almost as numerous as law-abiding citizens. Sheriff Dow was slain by a man who fired through a doorway without giving him a chance for his life. When the man was freed, Bob Dow determined to become a lawyer and to continue the efforts of his father to bring respect for law into southeast New Mexico. He studied law in winter and punched cattle in summer.

Soon after he hung out his shingle, his old neighbors elected him district attorney. Later he became assistant attorney general and at the last election he was made attorney general. One of his assistants, Carl Livingston, also rode the range before he became a member of the bar.

Dow formerly owned a large ranch near Carlsbad.

ELEANOR GUNN
On Fashions

The Intricate Detail of Many Spring Garments Comes Under the Patchwork Classification, Without Color Contrasts to Register Effects—Prints for Spring Is the Slogan

Paris—One often hears the criticism that fashions are absurd. In this day and age, the casual observer, even though critically inclined, finds it difficult to condemn them under this head, yet there are absurdities in the mode. They lie in the amazing amount of handwork that is apparently necessary to the success of a garment, especially since this intricate ornamentation is often completely lost on the casual observer.

Couturiers take plain materials, cut them into little bits, strips, wedges, or spirals, and then proceed to sew them together again, which on the face of it seems an absurd performance. When these wedges and joinings affect the shape of the garment, the end justifies the means, but when the result is just a beautifully executed patchwork, all in the same color, it often seems rather an unnecessary proceeding, and one that is responsible for doubling, even tripling, the price of a gown.

Poplin a Desirable Material.

This is also true of a coat, for this spring one feels that a coat to be smart must be one of these tricky affairs that have a semblance of simplicity and yet are involved to a degree that makes them the despair of the copyist. Coats, to all intents and purposes, are straight-line and are held together instead of being bowed, buttoned, or buckled, the three most approved ways of fastening, when fasten one must.

Because coats have been so befurred during the winter, some women approve the models that are entirely untrimmed, apparently because an equal number of women, having become accustomed to the flattery of soft fur about their chins, insist on fur collars even for spring. It's a poor rule that does not work both ways.

Chanel shows some coats with cloth collars, narrow standing affairs that she sometimes faces with a flat fur, such as caracul or shaved lamb, but more often leaves plain. Lelong found black velvet an effective trimming for a black poplin coat. Poplin, by the way, is one of the desirable materials, not only for the separate coat, but for the coat dress and the ensemble.

Sports Coats Usually Belted.

Yokes, at the back only, are another spring coat detail, and in some cases there is a slight fulness below the yoke, a most desirable feature for the full-figured woman.

Many coats are sportive in general type, and these nearly always boast one or more pockets and are usually belted, fashion still taking advantage of every opportunity there is to add a belt, usually a leather one. Self belts have ceased to be of style interest. Since the purpose of the modern belt is not to define the curve of the waistline, it must justify its existence by being ornamental. Usually narrow and simply buckled, it still manages to register as important in the general decorative scheme.

Later on, when brighter sunshine makes our dresses bloom with the multicolored flowers that have been sprinkled over spring crepes and satins, coats are to be printed also. The reversible ones are most practical, since one cannot expect a printed coat to serve every purpose.

There is no overestimating the importance of printed fabrics this spring and summer, nor need the large woman deplore this fact, since the average print is quite possible for her to wear, because of the even distribution of its design and the careful blending of its colors.

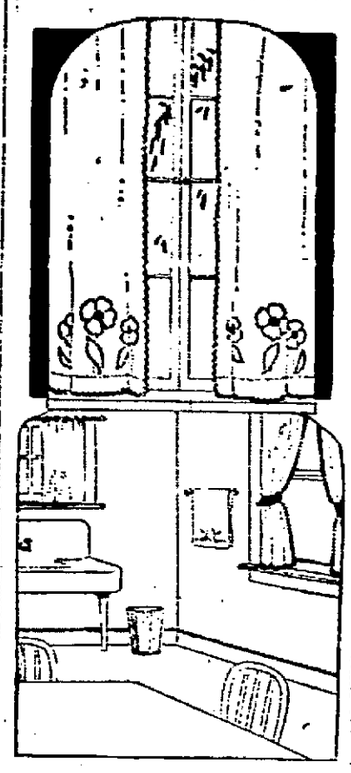
Cross Manor, south of St. Marys City, is said to be the oldest house in the state. It was built in 1644.

Empty Flour Bags Are Suitable for Curtains

The kitchen has come into its own at last. It is no longer the neglected room of the house, for which anything is good enough and where tinpans is to be expected. In these days of spotless enamel cabinets and work tables, tile floors, pretty painted breakfast sets and even snow-white stoves, the kitchen has become one of the most attractive places in the home. Nor the least important item in its furnishings are the curtains.

These should be light in color, attractive in appearance and easily washed. There should always be an extra pair on hand for use in emergencies. For all except the longest type of kitchen window—and nowadays they are building houses with short, wide windows—a couple of empty flour bags will make as pleasing a pair of kitchen curtains as any housewife could want. The material is soft, closely woven, durable and costs practically nothing. Almost any baker will be glad to sell them for a few cents apiece.



How Used Flour Bags May Be Made Into Attractive Curtains.

The stamping on the bag is not difficult to remove. Simply cover it with lard or soak it in kerosene overnight, and it is easily washed out in lukewarm water the next morning.

There are several ways to make the curtains that do not make much work. For instance, you might put a border of blue checked gingham on three sides, and make little tie-backs to match. Or buttonhole the sides and bottom with some colored mercerized thread and work a simple design in the lower inside corners in outline stitch. Still another suggestion is to have plain hems and applique on the bottom or flowers cut out of cretonne.

In finishing the curtains, it is preferable to sew brass rings to the back of the top hem instead of having a casing for the rod. This makes the curtains slide more easily and therefore wear longer.

"Flour-bag" curtains are equally suitable for the bathroom and for the children's room. In this case, decorate the curtains with nursery figures or animals worked in outline or appliqued out of pieces of gingham or chambray from your scrap bag.

For Women Interested in Fashion of the Day

Extremely clever little hat ornaments of marcasite or rhinestones, in the form of birds or fish, have bright feathered tails or fins, made of real feathers.

Chenille hats are being worn, usually small skull caps made of dotted chenille.

Novelty necklaces other than crystals include those of aquamarine, topaz and emerald; also coral of the palest pink to match the rather indefinite pink expected to be a leader for sports wear.

A printed chiffon evening dress by Molyneux has the center of each of the small flowers that go to make up the design of a single rhinestone.

Hand bags are seldom swung from the wrist, but are held by a strap on the finger or carried under the arm.

A great deal of gray is noticed in and about Paris, not only for sports wear, where it is supreme, but in coats, hats and dresses.

Hosiery remains light and may still be classified as nude, although there are any number of different shades.

A black velvet straightline coat worn at the Auteuil races had a silver fox scarf as a band across the back, placed at an angle; and for a collar, another silver fox, worn around the neck, with the head and brush at the back.

Light Fur to Be Used on New Summer Coats

"Featherweight" fur coats for summer wear will be a feature of this year's styles for the ultra fashionable women.

Models of "summer" ermine, displayed at some fur shops, weighs about two and one-half pounds.

Pacific seal promises to be popular this year. It is grayish white, with marble-like markings in spots and stripes.

Rescued Men Tell of Hardship

Port Dover, Ont., March 30 (AP).—A story of five days on the disabled tug Altawandron, frozen fast in the Lake Erie ice field with no food, no blankets and little fuel, was told today by two members of the crew of five who escaped across the ice to a rescue ship.

Harry Phillips and Donald McLeod were brought here aboard the tug Racey. They had won their way with their three companions across the ice to the tug Jean F., which was also caught in the ice field while attempting to break away through to the Altawandron. From there they continued to the Racey, which was in clear water.

The five men set out a week ago to set fishing nets. When they attempted to return the ice had surrounded their craft and all efforts of rescue failed. They had food for only one day.

Wednesday Phillips and McLeod became desperate and attempted to reach shore across the ice, but a change in the wind drove the ice field out into the lake. They finally reached the Jean F., and yesterday the other three members of the crew escaped across the ice to the disabled rescue tug.

The Racey and another tug brought food to the Jean F., yesterday and took off the two men. The other three and the Jean F.'s crew remained aboard her, hoping the rescue craft would break through to them today. The two disabled boats are said to be drifting westward, holding tight in the grip of the ice.

CANADA PROVINCE PROFITS BY AUTO LICENSE LAXITY

Fredericton, N. B., March 30 (AP).—The province of New Brunswick eliminated the year-end rush for automobile registration plates this year by extending the expiration of 1927 registration for two months.

Only with the beginning of March were motorists required to carry 1928 license plates. The result has been greatly increased motor travel on the highways throughout the central and southern portions of the province, where snowfall was light.

Instead of losing money by allowing motorists more time in which to register, the provincial treasury has benefited by increased receipts from gasoline taxes. The bordering state of Maine lent its cooperation to the scheme in permitting New Brunswick drivers to enter that state with 1927 plates during January and February. The plan probably will be continued in future years, the authorities say.

BALDWIN'S DECISION ANNOYS RUBBER INTERESTS

London, March 30 (AP).—Rubber interests today expressed annoyance when it was learned that Premier Baldwin would not make his statement on the rubber question next Wednesday until 3:30 p. m. They tried hard through their parliamentary friends to induce him to postpone the announcement until Thursday when parliament meets at 11 a. m.

They pleaded that the statement at 3:30 would not reach the London stock market until half an hour before closing whereas, owing to the difference in time, it would be available in New York after 10:30 a. m., eastern standard time, and New York would have nearly a whole day to conduct operations.

The premier stuck to his original decision.

OKLAHOMA SALT PLAIN IS PERFECT RACE TRACK

Cherokee, Okla., March 30 (AP).—Nature's perfect automobile race track is found near here.

It is a huge slab of snow-white salt, twelve miles long and nine wide. The surface is as hard as a floor and there is scarcely a rut. Little vegetation grows on it, although good agricultural land skirts the area.

The tract is believed to be the bed of an old salt lake. The dividing line between the salty area and the non-saline land is as distinct as a shore line. Wild ducks frequently mistake the salt for water, and land by the thousands.

Rock salt formerly was mined in a few places along the edge of the area.

Explaining Crimson Snow

The supposed phenomenon of red snow, seen many times at about 6,000 feet above sea level on Mount Albert Edward, British Columbia, has been explained scientifically as being due to the presence of a minute plant known to botanists as Protococcus nivalis. The illusion becomes more pronounced the deeper one digs into the snow, which is tinted a deep crimson.

Won Fame as Inventor

Dempsey Is Still Popular

Former Champion's Two-Fisted Style Is What the Fans Want—Broadcasting Results in Smaller Attractions.

New York, March 30 (AP).—The roar of the crowd may bring Jack Dempsey back into the ring once more if the lure of the old combat or another half million dollar "cut" doesn't.

The former heavyweight champion, shorn of the old laurel wreath, has become a more popular figure and a bigger gate attraction than he ever was when he stood at the top of the heap.

Even after his dismal defeat at Philadelphia, Dempsey emerged somewhat of a hero because he refused to alibi himself. Shortly afterward, he was cheered to the echo at Madison Square Garden while Tunney was greeted with mingled applause and boos.

Beaten and battered though he was, again Dempsey got the bigger cheer when he climbed out of the ring at Chicago last September. The showing of motion pictures of the battle of Soldier Field throughout the country increased the popular reaction in Dempsey's favor.

Nearly ten thousand persons in San Francisco a few days ago gave the old mauler a sensational ovation at a charity show. Wherever he went the crowds followed him, just as they did when he was king.

The pack still seems to string with the once mighty man of Manassa, the big punch is still the main drawing card. And the crowd can't forget that Dempsey was good—when he had it.

So long as the dearth of outstanding challengers persists Dempsey will be the favorite. He may stick to his present idea of retiring but it will be many a moon before another such two-fisted walloper turns up to away the emotions of the mob.

A year ago Pete Latzo left New York a welterweight, no longer the champion after his defeat by Joe Dundee but nevertheless a legitimate 147 pounder.

Next Monday the former mine boy of Scranton will return to Metropolitan rings as a light-heavyweight, meeting Tony Marullo, who has just finished giving venerable Mike McTigue another shove down the scale.

The microphone's place is in the broadcasting studio, not the football stands, if the belief of college graduate managers is accepted.

The shrinkage in attendance at many big games has prompted action by these business mentors to curb the broadcasting privileges. Out in the Pacific northwest the complaint is that the fans stay at home to listen to other big games on the air, rather than patronizze the home product.

These graduate managers watch their gates as closely as any prize fight promoter. They estimate that because many Pacific coast fans preferred to stay at home and listen to the Southern California-Notre Dame battle last year it made a difference in gate receipts for other games amounting to $12,000 at Los Angeles, $15,000 at San Francisco and $8,000 at Portland.

The alarm over the idea that radio may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs in football isn't peculiar to the Pacific coast. It is shared to such an extent in the east that many big colleges have refused broadcasting privileges altogether, while others limit it to the big classics, which are assured of big sell-outs anyway.

Lightest Collegian Player.

College Park, Md., March 30 (AP).—Thurston Dean of the University of Maryland basketball team was one of the lightest guards playing regularly with a leading college quintet. Five feet, nine inches tall, he weighs only 113 pounds but enough endurance is packed into his slight frame to keep him going at top speed for the full 40 minutes of a game. Dean, playing his second year with the varsity, was a big factor in the success of the Old Liners who won a majority of their games.

Port Ewen Games and Dance.

The regular Friday night basketball games and dance will be held at Port Ewen tonight. The preliminary will be between the Port Ewen girls' team and the Artistic girls' quintet. The main event will be staged between the Port Ewen representatives and the Artistic men's team. Tony Turck's Romance of Rhythm Orchestra will furnish music for dancing after the games.

Spanish Boxer Visiting Here

Manuel Quintero, Walk Miller's latest Southern importation, has arrived in Kingston for a much needed rest, after electrifying New York istic followers by his clean cut victories over Johnny Kochansky and Joey Kauffman in the Garden.

The flashy little southpaw from Tampa lived up to his prefix as southern lightweight champion, when he stopped the tough Johnny Kochansky in five rounds and defeated Joey Kauffman every round of their ten round setto in Madison Square Garden.

Along the lines of a former great lightweight, Leach Cross, this pleasing Spanish boxer has studied dentistry and upon his retirement from ring warfare, intends hanging out his shingle and entering business. Manuel says he knows of no better indoor sport than knocking out the molars tonight and putting them in tomorrow.

In just a bit less than three years of boxing, Manuel has hung the scalps of some of the leading lightweights of the present day to his belt. He has invaded the east for the purpose of adding the remaining names that stand in his path to the lightweight championship. He is ready for the best and the rest. There are none too good for him.

Hilario Martinez, Solly Seamon, Benny Valger (2), Pal Moran, Billy Drako, Frankie Osner, Joe Cook, Tommy Jones, Baby Stribling, Armando Sheckles, Cirilin Olano, Boots Antley, Armis Del Pino, Harry Kid Brown, Basil Galiano, Jimmy Hackley, are a few who have met this sensational Spanish mitt-thrower and came out second best.

Manuel Quintero is one of the best showmen in the ring today. He is of the aggressive type of fighter, one who steps out at the tap of the gong, delivering what the fans and promoters pay for a fight. He is relentless in his attack, much on the same order of the late "Tiger Flowers." is a ceaseless, tireless worker, getting faster as the match progresses and throws equally as many gloves as did the late "Tiger" Flowers and Harry Greb.

Walk Miller will arrive here in a few days to outline the improvements to be made at his training camp and will announce definitely the opening of the camp, so that the many friends and followers of the fighters can view them in their workouts.

McGRAW CAN HIT DESPITE 55 YEARS

Augusta, Ga., March 30 (AP).—John J. McGraw, 55 years of age and more than 20 years retired from active play, can still hit a baseball in any direction he chooses.

At a drill of New York Giant pitchers the manager did the batting as a string of pitchers took a turn on the mound. Veteran stars, medium, and young fellows just trying to get along went out to pitch. McGraw slapped hits to right, to center and to left, and he bunted to third and first.

The workout was to teach the pitchers how to field bunts and what to do on plays arising with runners on the bases.

It was the reverse of batting practice where a score of players bat with a few pitchers throwing the ball up. McGraw did all the batting and every pitcher within sound of the manager's strong voice got a chance to do some pitching.

Watching the white haired player of 25 years ago slam his short, sharp hits "in the groove" between the bases and fields, caused one to wonder if he could not play a few games now and then. He would certainly hit the ball and he moves around the field as if his legs would respond to any reasonable request made of them.

There is a rumor that his legs are bad, so he probably will not enter the regular lineup.

FOUR REMAIN IN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

New York, March 30 (AP).—The field of six in the National Hockey League world series had been cut to four today, with the Ottawa Senators, champions last year, and the Pittsburgh Pirates passing out of the picture.

The Senators were defeated in the Canadian group semi-finals at the hands of the rugged Maroons of Montreal in a two-game, total goal, series, three goals to one. The Pirates were eliminated by the New York Rangers in the American division, six goals to four.

The Maroons now will clash in another two-game, total goal series with the Canadiens, leaders of the Canadian division, and the Rangers will meet the Boston Bruins, who topped the American group. The survivors of these competitions then meet in a five-game series for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy.

CHANDLERS TO AGAIN MEET RED SHIELDS

The Chandlers and the Red Shields are scheduled to meet at the Salvation Army basketball court Monday night at 8:30 for their second battle of the season. The Chandlers took the first at the Y. M. C. A. gym, 23-22, after a hard struggle in the closing period. The Red Shields are hard to overcome on their home court and it is expected that a "rubber" will have to decide the superior quintet.

Wilbur Teams To Play.

The men's and girls' basketball teams of Wilbur will meet the Chichester clubs on the mountain community court for the second time this season Saturday night.

Seven Managers Attend Meeting

Industrial League Season Opens May 7—Pete Jordan to Umpire in Eight-Team Circuit—Warren Re-elected President.

Seven teams were represented at the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday night when plans were formed for an Industrial Baseball League. One more team is to be taken in to complete an eight-team schedule. The season will open on Monday evening, May 7. It is contemplated that games will be played on the Athletic Field as in past years. Pete Jordan was elected official umpire at the meeting.

The following teams were represented by the managers named: Columbia shirt factory, T. Dugan; Apollo Magneto, C. Glazer; Post Office-City, Harold Johnson; Schilling furniture factory, Stephen Didzik; Shapiro & Rubin pants factory, Charles Hicks; Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, M. Bailey, and the Hercules powder mills, M. D. Lane.

The U. & D.-Cornell nine and the West Shore team, who played in last year's league, were not represented. It is thought that these industries might enter teams at the next meeting to be held on April 12. At this time clubs will be required to post the entry fee. The entry fee last year was $20. The sum is returned at the of the season. It is expected that consolidations might be made in order to strengthen teams and make the games more interesting. This will also leave room for other industries to enter if the plan is carried out.

Charles Warren and Louis S. Coe, who served as president and vice president, respectively, last year, were again chosen to serve in the same capacities. E. G. Banks, manager of last year's West Shore team, was selected as treasurer. John Hartman was re-elected secretary.

The men interested in the Industrial Baseball League forecast a good season and all preparations are being made to keep up enthusiasm throughout the playing period. The schedule will be divided in two halves and the winner of each will compete for the championship at the end of the season which will probably end some time in July.

The question of keeping spectators off the diamond this year was taken up at the meeting. A request will be made to the police force for help. It is also anticipated roping the grounds off so that the crowd may be kept out of playing bounds.

NATIONAL GUARD BOUTS BECOMING POPULAR

The National Guard boxers, the cream of which appears here in the armory for the American Legion bouts under the auspices of the 156th Field Artillery, are of such outstanding calibre that they are being called upon to put on shows in the state's prominent cities. Schenectady has resumed National Guard boxing shows after a lapse of several years and a crowded house is forecast for the program at the Schenectady armory tonight.

The upstate fans will see Frankie Konchina in action against "Red" Riley of Watervliet in an eight rounder and Charley Von Reeden will stack up against Scotty Horsburg in another eight rounder. Jimmy Kelly, National Guard featherweight king, will meet Soldier Buckley in one of the attractions.

Konchina will try to roll up several victories before he again meets Oscar Pultz here on Friday evening, April 13. He beat Pultz in the armory at the last matches but the fans disapproved of the decision so the coming bout will likely be an earnest scrap.

Redeemers Going To Schenectady

Wednesday was the last day of the Senior Sunday School basketball league. The Redeemer team was the winner by coming from behind at the beginning of the season and winning every game they played. They are the undisputed City Sunday School basketball champions. They are now eligible to represent Kingston in the sectional tournament to be held in Schenectady Saturday.

An invitation has been received, discussed, considered, and accepted to enter the Redeemer team in the North Eastern District Sunday School basketball tournament. The opportunity was layed before Pastor Brandorff of the Redeemer Church and he immediately got in touch with some of the men's club officers who thought well of the chance and steps were taken to send the boys as a reward for their efforts into the tournament up-state Saturday.

The boys to make the trip are the regular line-up consisting of: Chet Fox, fast stepping forward and captain; Hank Dittus, a hard worker and a dead shot; Sam Messinger, the big boy center; Vic Spalt, the left handed defense who stops most of the good ones; Hoky Houghtaling, the long haired scoring guard; and Dick Bailey, the big strong utility man.

Transportation will be taken care of by friends of the boys consisting of two cars. One owned and driven by S. J. Messinger and the other by John C. Porter the local Y. M. C. A. General Secretary. The team will leave Kingston about 1:30 o'clock and will have the best wishes of the whole city to help them bring home the trophies.

WALSH PULLS A TENDON TEACHING BILL CISSELL

Shreveport, La., March 30 (AP).—Coach "Big Ed" Walsh of the Chicago White Sox has taught Bill Cissell how to repay the Sox for the $123,000 they paid for him, but the effort was so strenuous that Walsh pulled a tendon and had to go to bed.

In the first exhibition games with the White Sox, the Pacific Coast League star was nervous, hitting at wide ones and dropping easy rollers. Walsh took Cissell aside, pitched to him and showed him his most glaring faults. Tossing one of his famous twisters, Walsh pulled a tendon and was forced to bed for two days. Now he is hobbling about with a cane and Cissell is improving rapidly, getting a triple, two doubles and two singles in his last nine times at bat. His fielding also has improved.

KENTUCKIANS PLAN MEMORIALS TO RACERS

Lexington, Ky., March 30 (AP).—A bronze memorial to Ten Broeck and Longfellow, two immortals of the turf, is planned by Lexington thoroughbred owners and breeders.

Mrs. James W. Cruther, horsewoman, has suggested Old Cheapside, made famous in the books of James Lane Allen, as the site for the memorial, which will be the work of Miss Katherine Wheeler. Miss Wheeler has modeled Man o' War, Epinard and Bubbling Over.

"Pa" Rourke Back In Baseball

Chicago, March 30 (AP).—"Pa" Rourke, mixed up in baseball since 1883, is back in the game he loves, after 45 years of it, because he could not stand the doldrums of a retired life.

"Pa" Rourke is William Rourke, for 21 years owner of the Omaha club of the Western League. Now he is on the payroll of the Cincinnati Reds, serving as a scout and assistant to Bobby Wallace.

The veteran is reputed to be wealthy, having amassed a neat pile as owner of the Omaha club. He tried the retired stuff, but was not satisfied, so, responding to the lure of the game, he decided to come back, in some capacity or other.

He is one of the outstanding figures in minor league baseball, numbering thousands among his personal friends all over the country. He is relying upon that friendship, and his skill in judging young players, as an asset for his scouting efforts for the Reds.

Rourke, a player, manager, owner and scout in his career, broke into the game as a player in Muscatine, Iowa, back in 1883. He drifted around, playing here and there, until he became owner of the Omaha club, which prospered under his control. He sent to the major leagues many stars whose names will live in memory after the present generation has passed.

The old-timer believes, with others, that the big leagues eventually will have to depend upon the colleges to recruit their playing strength.

"It's an open secret now that the sandlots of the cities and the rural diamonds are not sending up one-fourth of the players they once did," Rourke says. "The average youth of today has a thousand and one more distractions to occupy him than was the case 25 years ago, or even less than that.

"Then our only big sport was baseball. The boys just had to play it. The boy who played tennis was regarded as a 'sissy.' Now, well, it's just too bad. They're not playing baseball."

YANKEES DROP NINE GAMES IN TEN STARTS

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 30 (AP).—The natives of St. Petersburg are wondering why they call the New York Yanks the champions of the world. After seeing the Yanks drop nine games in ten starts during the spring training season, they have had a lot of illusions about Babe Ruth and company shattered. Huggins had one consolation today, however. His charges can't lose any more games until Saturday. They break camp today and no game is scheduled.

Huggins gave Herb Bryant, a catcher, the air and a ticket to Jersey City, bringing the Yankee roster down to 27 men.

Chandlers vs. Judaeans.

The Chandlers will meet the Young Judaeans on the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night. The tilt is expected to be a fast one and a large number of spectators have expressed their intention of seeing the game. In a preliminary match the Y's Men will meet the Port Ewen team at 7 o'clock.

New Paltz vs. Potsdam.

Last week the Girls' Varsity team of New Paltz, journeyed north, to play three teams, Plattsburg, St. Lawrence and Potsdam Normals. They ran into some pretty tough luck, and on top of it all, lost the three games, though only by a small score.

Tonight on their own court the Paltz girls will play their last varsity game with Potsdam. The game is called for 8 o'clock. The teams are both evenly matched and fast, and they promise a snappy interesting game. There will be dancing after.

Fingerprints Made Visible

Until recently the only known method of taking fingerprints was first to find them with magnifying glasses, and then photograph them. Science has now enabled the detective to throw into prominence fingerprints which he suspects but cannot see even with the strongest magnifying glass. This is by the application of osmic acid or iodine vapor to the spot where the fingerprint is believed to be.

JUST HUMANS

FOR CONVALESCENTS

THE choice of foods for the convalescent diet depends, of course, upon the nature of the illness through which the invalid has just come, as well as upon his personal taste and the whims that may be noticed in his weakened condition. But every effort should be made to provide tempting looking and tasting surprises for the convalescent, just as soon as the doctor recommends solid foods.

Most invalids and convalescents crave the stimulating, mild tartness of the citrus fruits, and these are much more appetizing and delicious to the sick as well as the normally healthy, when kept on the ice until time to serve. A tepid grapefruit or a warmish orange is not appealing at all. A glass of cold lemonade or orangeade, or the clear, undiluted juice of the latter fruit, is always a welcome drink to the invalid or convalescent, and dietitians have proved that the natural salts and minerals of these fruits actually help rebuild the depleted bodily tissues of the patient. Their vitamine content is high, and vitamines are health builders.

Eggs are usually an important item in the convalescent's diet, but he will get unmercifully sick of soft-boiled eggs, and poached eggs on toast, which are the standard home ways of offering them. The eggs can be deftly hidden in delicious omelets, or in nourishing custards and dainty little puddings, such as rice pudding, Brown Betty of several varieties, and in ice cream, which most invalids especially appreciate. Here is a dainty dessert for the convalescent who is just beginning to take solids:

Fruit Snow.

Beat two egg whites until stiff, add one-fourth cupful of orange pulp and juice, continue beating, adding powdered sugar to sweeten. Beat until the mixture will hold its shape, adding a few tablespoonfuls of whipped cream when serving.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

GREAT GAME—MONEY

THERE is one thing for which the most of us strive all our lives—MONEY.

Ever since the world began the possession of money by one person has been the incentive for others to seek to take it away and add it to their own stores.

Sometimes this is done by honest means, by the channels of trade. But always there are dishonest and unprincipled individuals who with hooks baited with tempting financial returns are trading on the human desire to get more money and get it as easily as possible.

How much of your money has gone or at this moment is in danger of going to somebody who is dangling in front of you a possible financial return for your hard-earned funds that is tempting you to take a risk that you know is dangerous?

Earning money and saving money are useless efforts unless when you have acquired the money you are wise enough to take care of it.

Don't gamble in stocks. Wiser and richer men than you have "gone broke" trying to make money in "the market."

Unless you know about them, do not buy any securities of any kind without the advice of some one who is acquainted with the investment of money.

If your money is in a bank, and that is where it should be unless it is already invested, get some officer of the bank to advise you.

If you think that there is an advantageous opportunity to buy real estate, go to some man who knows real estate and take his advice. It will be better to pay him for the advice than to lose the money.

Look on your money just as you do on your health.

If you have doubts as to whether you are eating the right food, you go to some one in whom you have faith and ask advice, and follow it.

Do the same thing with your pocketbook and its contents. Get good advice and follow it.

If you have been wholly honest with other people in getting your money, be wholly honest with yourself in taking care of it, and you cannot be that if you hope and try to gain more from its investment than it can properly earn.

There is a reasonable expectation from investment. To get less than that is cheating yourself. To try to get more is to seek to cheat the other fellow. And that doesn't pay.

AMERICAN HORSE SECOND IN GRAND NATIONAL

Aintree, England, March 30 (AP).—Only two horses, one of them American bred, of the forty-two starters in the historic grand national finished today in one of the most sensational runnings of this classic event since its inauguration in 1839.

Tipperary Tim, owned by H. S. Kenyon and ridden by J. Dutton, an amateur, proved to have the stamina and luck to win. He was a 100 to 1 shot. The distance was four miles 856 yards.

The great American favorite, Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce of Baltimore, made a grand race of it, but lost his chance to become the first American-bred horse to win the historic chase by an unlucky fall at the last fence.

He was remounted, however, by his Irish Jockey Cullinan and finished the course, capturing second place. He was a 33 to 1 shot.

The rest of the field, jockeys and horses, were littered all over the gruelling ground.

Although odds against Billy Barton had been falling off before the race, the horse did nobly, losing to Tipperary Tim, an outsider, almost within a stone's throw of finishing first.

It was the American-bred horse's race all the way until he tripped on the last fence.

MISS TRUMBULL GIVEN WHITE HOUSE PET

Northampton, Mass., March 30 (AP).—The White House has lost a pet and Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut and friend of John Coolidge, son of the President, has acquired one.

"Blackberry," a black chow, was presented to the President and Mrs. Coolidge in South Dakota last summer. Mrs. Coolidge brought it here with her early in the week when she came to visit her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, ill at a local hospital.

Yesterday she gave the dog to Miss Trumbull, who had greatly admired it, and last night when the Connecticut governor's daughter drove off for Hartford in her sport roadster, she took Blackberry with her.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

A "CATSPAW"

"THEY can't make a catspaw out of me," is a way of saying that one will not be used as a tool to do an unpleasant job to serve some one else's purpose.

The word "catspaw" has a legitimate meaning in the parlance of the sea. It is the nautical term to describe the light air which ruffles the surface of the water in patches during a calm. Frequently heralding a storm, this "catspaw" is said to have been named from the fact that certain frolics of the cat will indicate to an experienced seaman the approach of a gale.

It is not from its nautical significance, however, that the term has found a place in modern slang. For the origin of its use as a synonym for "dupe" or "tool" we must turn to the old fable of the monkey who wanted to get some roasted chestnuts out of the fire, but did not want to burn his fingers in the hot ashes. To serve his purpose he used the cat's paw. And the cat knew better the next time.

Naval Range Finder

An accurate method of computing the distance between ships when the height of the enemy ship is not known is by the use of the optical range finder. This instrument is installed in the turrets of battleships. It consists of a long tube with optical prisms. The length of the tube is taken as the base of a triangle. The distance is then figured out mathematically. The degree of accuracy depends upon the visibility conditions and the distance can usually be ascertained within a few hundred yards of the exact distance.

Progress in Lighting

A common laborer of today works about ten minutes each day to pay for the lighting of his home by means of electricity. A half-century ago he would have had to work two and one-half hours to provide the same amount of light by means of gas flames. And if he had supplied himself a half-century ago with the same amount of light from candles he would have had to work 24 hours every day to pay his lighting bill. For this great reduction in the cost of artificial lighting, modern science is responsible.—Scientific American.

Ramsey Buys Out Competitor

and Piano Manufacturers Buy Out Piano Hardware Business of Henry Haas & Son of Plainfield, N. J.

Recently there was published in the Freeman an article stating that the latest step in the industrial and manufacturing development of Kingston took place when the Charles Ramsey Corporation acquired by purchase the piano hardware business of Henry Haas & Son of Plainfield, N. J. This purchase includes all machinery and equipment, patents and good-will in fact everything connected with the manufacture of piano hardware with the exception of the building in Plainfield—and the purchasers are now engaged in moving the equipment to their factory on Gage street. Here considerable alterations have been carried out recently to accommodate the additional machinery.

The business of Henry Haas & Son was established seventy years ago when the piano industry in America was in its infancy, and only the boldest and most optimistic would have ventured to predict the size to which the industry has now grown. On the death of Henry Haas, his son, Louis Haas, continued the manufacture of piano hardware until his death in 1909. It then passed to his widow and children and since has been managed by Harold L. Haas, the eldest grandson of the original founder. For sixty-five years the business was operated at various locations in New York city and in 1923 the machinery and equipment was moved to a factory, acquired by the firm, in the city of Plainfield, N. J.

Ramsey Worked in Haas Plant.

It is interesting to note that Charles Ramsey, the head of the Charles Ramsey Corporation, gained his first experience in the manufacture of piano hardware in the Haas plant in New York city. Severing his connections with that firm in 1897, Mr. Ramsey started in business on his own account and rapidly built up an extensive connection throughout the trade. In 1910 Mr. Ramsey acquired the property on Gage street to which the machinery and equipment from his factory in New York city was then moved. The present corporation was originated early in 1922 with Mr. Ramsey as president and Mr. Campbell as treasurer.

Ranks Among Leaders.

The Charles Ramsey Corporation now ranks as one of the big factors in the piano industry in America. A visit to the factory on Gage street shows the variety of piano hardware lines manufactured there, and for which the great majority of piano manufacturers in the country are dependent on them. Pedals for upright pianos, player pianos, grand pianos in hundreds of different styles, dimensions and designs. Pressure bars to suit hundreds of scales. Casters to suit all kinds of pianos from the low priced upright to the concert grand. A wide range of fancy hinges, player rods, muffler rails, mandolin rails, grand braces, lyre rods.

These and many more, but the most interesting item from the visitor's viewpoint is the manufacture of continuous hinges which are used on pianos and also on radio and talking machine cabinets, automobile trunks, caskets, desks, and so forth. One can see the sheet metal in coils as it comes from the mill, straightened and cut to hinge lengths, which may be any size up to 60 inches long, made up into hinges highly polished and electroplated in the large and well equipped plating room—every process of manufacture being carried out on special machines designed and built in their own tool room.

It is gratifying to be able to add the Charles Ramsey Corporation to the list of highly successful business enterprises which have made Kingston their home and it is equally gratifying to realize that Kingston has such facilities as transportation, abundant electric power and water to offer as inducements to those who sought a location here or may do so.

ULSTER COUNTY GUN CLUB TO HOLD ANOTHER SHOOT.

The second shoot of the Ulster County Gun Club will be held at the Kiersted Farm on the Saugerties road, Saturday, March 31, provided weather conditions permit. The shot will be restricted to members only. Shells for 20-gauge, 16-gauge and 12-gauge guns may be purchased at the grounds. It is suggested that those who have not visited the Kiersted Farm take the Saugerties road to the Pan-Am Gas station where they may obtain information how to reach the shoot.

A Successful Dance.

The dance held in the downtown Jewish Comumnity Center Thursday night by the Phi Beta Theta, Jewish fraternity, was a most successful event. The largest gathering to attend a dance in the Center this year was present and the ticket sales netted the fraternity a nice sum. Tony Turck and his Romance of Rhythm Orchestra furnished the music. The patrons expressed their delight at dancing in the hall which was neatly decorated in blue and gold, Phi Beta Theta colors. The organization will hold another dance in the near future.

Postmaster Dies, Regretted Act

he could easily have shot the Trooper dead, a she had his gun ready).

Apparently Regretted Act.

Harry also said he had shot Miss Terwilliger because he had an argument with her about his brother keeping company with her. He objected to it. His first knowledge that Miss Terwilliger had died of the wounds came from his brother while he sat eating. He apparently then realized what he had done and may have regretted his deed for he said, "what a terrible thing I have done for both families".

After eating he demanded a heavy coat and hat and when this was given him he disappeared again into the darkness and it was then his brother gave the alarm and the authorities learned for the first time that Harry McHugh was alive.

This word was sent out in all directions and soon the authorities were drawing a net close about the village. Captain Fox at Sidney dispatched additional Troopers to the scene. Sheriff Rice sent out his men to search the vicinity and all available deputies were sent to the village to close in on McHugh, who was known then to certainly be in hiding nearby.

Witnessed Dragging of River.

It is thought that McHugh at first left the scene of the shooting and went to a considerable distance, later circling back to the woods where he watched the efforts of the authorities to locate him. He said he had witnessed the dragging of the river and the process of dynamiting. Having returned to the scene he probably devised a means of escape and selected a place of hiding nearby where he waited for darkness to cover his visit to his brother's to get food and needed clothing. He also spoke to his brother about getting a car to take him away from the village but made no arrangement for meeting any car which might be provided.

From the house he evidently went to the lumber yard where he hid until morning. The first knowledge the Troopers had of McHugh's presence in the yard was the sound of the falling hammer of the heavy service revolver. As they approached between two piles of lumber there was the sound of the falling hammer and a glimpse of a moving object. The Trooper fired at the same time commanding McHugh to come out. The reply was a second shot which ended the affair. McHugh never gained consciousness.

McHugh was placed in a car and taken to his home where he died about 3 o'clock.

McHugh is not believed to have been insane. It is thought he might have planned the shooting and prior to it selected a hiding place and his course of escape, although this is not borne out by the fact that he was unprepared for an escape at the time of the shooting and was not properly clothed to withstand the cold weather during the nights.

Brother Jesse Collapsed.

Jesse, the younger brother who was the innocent cause of the shooting and of his brother's later actions, has been much upset by the affair. Following the shooting he collapsed and has been confined to his home since.

Everyone who knew McHugh are of the general opinion that the shooting resulted from brooding over his brother's love affair with Miss Terwilliger. Always an obliging and courteous person, Harry McHugh was well liked by everyone who knew him. His disposition was quiet. Taking the affair too seriously, he is believed to have brooded unnecessarily over his brother's affair until his mind became weakened and caused him to seek to end the matter.

FURNISH ROOM IN HONOR OF DR. SEELEY

The Sunday school and friends of the school of the Fair Street Reformed Church have just contributed the funds for the furnishing of the Greek room at Central College, Pella, Iowa, as a tribute to the beloved pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley, who is also the president of the Board of Domestic Missions of the General Synod of the Reformed Church.

While Dr. Seeley was attending a conference there the college building was burned and the citizens of Pella have rebuilt the building for the college, leaving the equipment of the same to the various Sunday schools of the Reformed Church to help out. As Dr. Seeley has now been pastor of the Fair Street Church for thirty years, the members of the Sunday school and friends felt that it would be a privilege to honor him in this way, and the Greek Room will be known as The Frank Barrows Seeley room.

PARTY FOR CHILDREN AT BROADWAY THEATRE.

A surprise party for children will be held at the matinee performance in the Broadway Theatre on Saturday. It will consist of dancing, singing, pie-eating and novelty contests for the little ones. A feature of the party will be a lecture on safety first by Ralph D. Tompkins, one-legged vaudeville performer, who is featured in the act with the Dell Sisters at the Theatre. Mr. Tompkins's offering stresses the value of safety and the way he puts his message across by dancing has a most pleasing effect. He lost his one leg 20 years ago when he fell beneath a train at Poughkeepsie. His mother died at the same time of shock. After ten years of effort he became a dancer and is now endeavoring to make others realize what safety means.

It is said that the pair eloped on Wednesday of last week and were married in Montreal, Canada. Rumor has it the groom had $2 and the bride $105. He was employed at the florist shop of Valentin Burgevin, Inc. and was also interested in telegraphy practicing evenings at the office of the Western Union, John street, where Miss Fraser was employerd as a clerk, her father, Fredrick Fraser, being the manager.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 30 (AP).—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of strength today as buying operations were resumed in recent speculative favorites and a brisk demand developed for the copper, public utility, rubber, steel and railroad shares. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, with the ticker again falling far behind the market. Total sales in first three hours ran close to 2,500,000 shares with indications that the 4,000,000 share mark would again be crossed before the end of the day.

Little attention was paid to the increase of about $46,000,000 in brokers' loans and the advance in the call money rates to 5 per cent coincident with the heavy calling of loans in preparation for month-end requirements.

Radio was again the individual feature, soaring 11½ points to a new high record at 182 on buying influenced by reports of an over extended short interest. General Motors was again taken in hand and bid up 5 points to 190 by early afternoon. General Electric jumped 6½ points to 157½, the highest price since the splitting up of the old stock several years ago.

Copper shares were heavily bought on a further increase in the price of the red metal. American Smelting, Anaconda and Calumet and Arizona all advanced four points or more, with gains of 1 to 3 points of most of the other non-ferrous metal issues.

Adams Express, which was weak yesterday, rallied 8½ points and du Pont extended its gain to nearly 8 points. Among the dozen or so issues to move up 3 points or more were American International, Brooklyn Edison, Consolidated Gas, Lambert, Montana Power, Park and Tilford, Union Carbide, Union Bag and Paper and United States Rubber.

Rails presented several points of strength, with St. Paul common, Delaware and Hudson, Illinois Central and Canadian Pacific showing early gains of 3 points or more.

The hearing on his application for release on a writ of habeas corpus opened on February 20 and continued two weeks while alienists and Remus himself took their turns in the witness chair. Remus's attorneys did not call him and the state demanded the reason. They were told that he was available to them if they wanted him and he was summoned then for cross-examination. For three days he testified as to the most minute details of his life, adding about 150,000 words to the record of the hearing.

Hard to Say Just Who Was "Father of Navy"

"The questions, 'Who was the father of the American navy? What was the first American warship and what was the first sea fight in the history of the nation?' are continually being raised," writes Prof. Walter B. Norris of the United States Naval academy in Current History. "When the facts are clear it is useless and impossible to answer them absolutely. If Washington became the 'father of his country' simply because he was its first President, then John Barry deserves the title for the navy, for he was its first commander appointed directly by the congress. But if Washington was 'father of his country' because he was chiefly responsible for its foundation, then John Paul Jones deserves the honor in the navy, for, although there was no real head of the navy during the Revolution, Jones suggested many of the lines on which it later developed and gave it traditions which have shaped its spirit ever since. . . . The first sea fight of the Revolution occurred on May 7, 1775, in the waters of Vineyard sound, Massachusetts, when a band of minute men from Dartmouth went out in a schooner, the Success, and recaptured two vessels that had been seized. Thus the Success must be called the first American warship, though it did not have even the legal status of a privateer, and was manned by members of the army."

U. S. FERTILIZER CHEMISTS CATCH UP ON EUROPEANS

Adoption of New Process by French Reverses Order of Things in Industry.

Birmingham, Ala.—The rapid advance of chemical engineering in the United States within the last few years is being significantly demonstrated by the adoption of an American process and apparatus for electrothermal production of phosphoric acid by a French fertilizer concern.

Heretofore the situation has usually been reversed. Many of the important developments in chemistry have been achieved abroad and American companies, to keep abreast of the industry's progress, have had to purchase the right to utilize these discoveries in the United States.

The phosphoric acid process was worked out by engineers and scientists of the Federal Phosphoric company of Birmingham, and thus far has been employed only in its plant at Anniston, Ala. The French rights were purchased recently by the Societe des Phosphates Tunisiens of Paris, which at the same time arranged to have its engineers and chemists instructed in the operation of the apparatus by American experts.

In addition to phosphoric acid, which will be converted chiefly into ammonium phosphate, a concentrated fertilizer, the American equipment and methods will enable the French company to market pure phosphoric acid and several pure salts, including mono-ammonium phosphate, diammonium phosphate and sodium phosphates.

"The production of concentrated fertilizer in Europe by means of this American development is in accordance with the tendency in the fertilizer industry to use more concentrated plant foods," says Theodore Swann, president of the Federal company.

Fallen Monarchists Hard Up in Germany

Berlin.—Court officials, high and low, who found themselves out of a job when the revolution of 1918 swept German courts and thrones into limbo, have had an uphill fight in securing other employment. For humane reasons, the republican government undertook to find them situations wherever possible in the various grades of the civil service, corresponding to their former salaries.

The ex-courtiers, of course, made as high estimates as they dared in assessing their income under the old regime. But in accordance with the general policy of cutting down expenditures, these figures have come recently under a closer scrutiny, with the result that it was found that they included all sorts of odd perquisites, such as the value of cast-off royal and princely clothing, footwear and bedding, the free use of court carriages and flunkeys, free theater seats, free medical treatment, table and wine money, Christmas and New Year's gifts and tips for showing visitors around.

The ex-incumbents have now been notified that these items cannot be allowed as part of "salaries" and they must accordingly be content with lower-grade classification in the service of the republican state. So in their case there are more laments than ever that "times aren't what they were."

Egypt's Mummy Fluid Used in Films Now

Kingsport, Tenn. — Pyroligneous acid, the mysterious fluid with which the ancient Egyptians mummified their dead, serves quite a different purpose in this Twentieth century.

The Tennessee Eastman corporation, a subsidiary of the Eastman Kodak company, makes tons of the acid daily out of waste wood and uses certain of the derivatives in the manufacture of film.

The fluid was efficacious as a preservative chiefly because of two ingredients, wood alcohol and creosote oils. It was produced by the old Egyptians in somewhat the same way as it is produced here—by heating wood to a high temperature in an inclosed chamber and condensing the vapors.

German Fliers Are Disappointed

Tempelhof Airdrome, March 30 (AP)—Gales which swept the Baldonnel air field most of the night, leading to a second postponement of the hop-off of the German plane Bremen across the Atlantic, began subsiding this morning.

There was a 25 to 30 mile wind when Baron Von Huenefeld and Captain Hermann Koehl appeared shortly before noon and gazed intently at the unfriendly western sky. They inspected the Bremen and then returned to the hangar which is serving as their home to study their weather charts and Atlantic maps.

The Germans are greatly disappointed at the delays caused by unfavorable weather conditions. They planned an almost continuous flight from Berlin to New York and their first lap—the 564 miles to Baldonnel—was covered so easily that they were fairly bubbling with joy when they reached here.

MANY INVENTIONS BY PACKARD, MOTOR CAR PIONEER.

The death of J. W. Packard recently at Cleveland recalled to the minds of many veterans of the automobile industry outstanding contributions to the motor car industry made by the originator of the Packard automobile. Many things now used on all cars were the invention of Mr. Packard more than a quarter of a century ago.

J. W. Packard and his brother, W. D. Packard, were prosperous manufacturers of electric lights and electrical supplies at Warren, Ohio, when they decided to build an automobile. Their car was completed November 6, 1899. It was such a success that friends forced them to build others and in a short time the Packard Motor Car Company was launched.

The first car, designed and built by J. W. Packard with the assistance of W. D. Packard, contained the basis for the automatic spark advance now used on all cars. A patent on the device was granted Mr. Packard two years later. In addition to an automatic advance the original patent covered mechanism for producing a spark of constant duration, regardless of the speed of the engine, a feature without which automobiles now could scarcely run.

The familiar "H" slot for shifting gears, found on all motor cars now manufactured, was another of the better known mechanical features invented by J. W. Packard. The first Packard car had a cross spring at the front end similar to that used for a number of years by one of the largest manufacturers, and this, too, was covered by a patent granted Packard.

Motorists today can set the throttle control of their cars on the steering post and operate the foot accelerator without disturbing the setting of the hand control because of another invention of Mr. Packard. He was granted a patent on this device, now universally used, in 1905.

One of Mr. Packard's original inventions played an important part in the Liberty motor. It was the use of a sheet metal water jacket for the cylinders, first employed by the Packard brothers in the building of their cars in 1902. The cylinders of practically all water cooled airplane engines are made in the same manner now.

Most of the patents issued to Mr. Packard for motor cars have expired but a large number are as universally used as these mentioned on which the original patents have also expired. Important as they have been in the industry, it is believed that some of the original Packard developments with materials for cars overshadowed them.

In an interview some time before his last illness J. W. Packard said that difficulties in finding suitable materials was one of the greatest troubles experienced in the early days. Armour plate steel sheets gave the only steel that could be found suitable for making gear wheels. It ruined the tools which were used to turn out the gears, however.

Because of the endless trouble encountered with grades of steel then available and in machining them, the Packards were forced into intensive research in heat treatment of metals. The Packard Company, through the start made by J. W. Packard and the work which has been continued since the earliest days of the company, has been credited with a great part in the heat treating science, one of the greatest contributing influences in the present mechanical age.

JUDGE AND SENATOR, BOTH VICTIMS

Judge John A. Swanson (left) and United States Senator Chas. S. Deneen were victims of outrages the same night when their homes in Chicago were bombed. Both officials issued public statements laying the blame on political enemies, who, they say, are seeking to intimidate them. Senator Deneen, in Washington, hurled defiance at his unknown assailants.

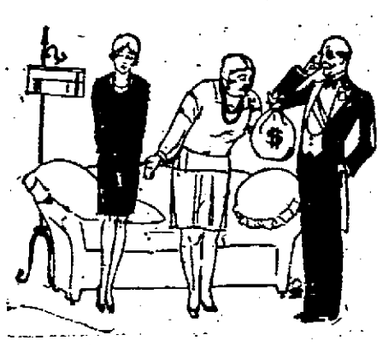
25 YEARS IN BUSINESS
WHY PAY SO MUCH FOR A NAME



You've heard so much about wealthy girls trading their wealth in order to get a Duke or Baron or Count, (they usually take the count). It's the same way with clothes.
What's the sense in paying $10 to $20 more just for the name when you buy a suit?
KANTROWITZ CLOTHES
Don't have to stand the expense of $1,000,000 advertising campaigns and yet every Kantrowitz suit carries an iron-clad make good guarantee.
The Kantrowitz Gold Seal Line of Suits and Topcoats are the finest hand tailored garments that can be made. Finest virgin woolens in long strand worsteds or in Kantrowitz Triple Twists. Cloths that are built for wear and good looks. The Gold Seal Line ranges at $50.00 TO $28.50
Others at $16.50 to $25.00.
